In Sitges, culture comes alive.

Sitges is one of the most inspiring cultural towns in Catalonia. It's a place where the sea, art and creativity have evolved hand-in-hand, shaping a unique cultural identity that continues to inspire new artistic, cultural and creative expressions even today.

In few places does such a diverse cultural heritage converge. The legacy of Santiago Rusiñol and Catalan modernisme coexists with the Maricel heritage site; the museus de Sitges collections; the legacy of Charles Deering, the Llopis family and the 'americanos'; and the tradition of Malvasia grapes. They all attest to a history written by artists, collectors and intellectuals, along with the people who have given the town its cultural personality and intense artistic life.

In Sitges, culture is not just something to be looked at; it's something to be lived.
