Shopping in Sitges. Let yourself go...

 Sitges Center

Shopping in Sitges is a sensory experience — a very Sitges experience, in fact. It is one that perfectly reflects the spirit of the town itself: relaxed yet vibrant, full of charm — both because of the products, which are anything but chain-store items, and because of the people behind them, who are equally unique. It is a shopping experience filled with personality — the kind that draws you in. With shops also open on Sundays and located within a pedestrian-friendly town centre, the experience becomes both inevitable... and irresistible.

SHOPPING ON FOOT THROUGH THE TOWN CENTRE

Let's help you get your bearings: the main shopping area in Sitges is concentrated in the town centre, forming a cross-shaped commercial district along Carrer de les Parellades and Carrer de Jesús on one side, and Carrer de Sant Francesc and Carrer Major on the other. In this area and the surrounding streets — Bonaventura, Bartomeu, Sant Pere, Sant Pau, Sant Gaudenci, Sant Josep and Àngel Vidal — you will find fashion, art, gourmet products and crafts. Original Mediterranean-inspired pieces from singular, independent and highly personal shops, with names, designs and collections that you will only find here. Because shopping in Sitges is a gift in itself. You will tell us we were right...

Open to you

Sitges's markets are a great way to discover the town's culinary identity, as well as its character and personality. This is a quintessentially Sitges experience, where the stalls at the municipal market and the street market show you that we love to share. And that if you come by, you're already a local.

MUNICIPAL MARKET

Hello, this is your market in Sitges!

100% LOCAL EXPERIENCE

More and more visitors are including municipal markets as part of their travels. And it is easy to understand why: few places reveal the rhythm and character of a town better than its market. In the case of Sitges, the Sitges Municipal Market offers a truly 100% local experience — full of joy, variety and flavour inspiration, in a welcoming space where everyone is invited to enter, look around, ask questions and let themselves be guided by the, colours, aromas and tastes of the Mediterranean. At the market, you will also find all the ingredients needed to prepare — or have prepared for you — the dishes you enjoy most, or perhaps even dare to try some of the most traditional Sitges recipes: cod and olives for Xató de Sitges; rice, prawns, clams and pork ribs for arròs a la sitgetana (Sitges-style rice); espigalls (a local variety of cabbage); and of course every kind of fish and meat.

A PRIVILEGED LOCATION

The market's location, right in the centre of Sitges, makes it easy to include as part of a morning itinerary that could also feature a route through the spectacular “Americanos” houses located around Plaça d'Eduard Maristany — along Carrer de Francesc Gumà, Carrer de l'Illa de Cuba and Carrer de Sant Bartomeu, all parallel streets, as well as Avinguda d'Artur Carbonell, Carrer de Sant Isidre, Carrer de Sant Gaudenci and Carrer de Jesús. And just over 500 metres away lie Platja de la Ribera and the Passeig Marítim seafront promenade.

STREET MARKET

A very local market

Thursday market

 From 9:30 to 14:00.

 Passeig de Vilafranca (Can Robert car park).

Saturday market

 From 7:00 to 14:00.

 Plaça de Catalunya square

In Sitges, markets are held on Thursday and Saturday mornings. If you happen to be here on either of those days, we highly recommend visiting these open-air markets. The Thursday market, located in Can Robert, focuses mainly on clothing and home accessories, although there are also food stalls. As for the Saturday market, fruit and vegetables take centre stage at the stalls in Plaça de Catalunya. These markets are a good way to start the weekend, as well as to discover that slow food is a deep-rooted concept in Sitges.

An handcrafted stroll

📍 Seafront promenade between Sofia Avenue and Prat de la Riba

The Passeig Marítim in Sitges is home to the well-known Craft Fair located between Avinguda Sofia and Carrer de Prat de la Riba. It features around twenty stalls offering all kinds of handmade artisan products every day.

A SEASIDE STROLL... WITH MANY STOPS

And it does not matter when you visit Sitges, because this craft market remains open all year round, although the artisans themselves tend to change according to the season (spring and summer from April to September, and autumn and winter from October to March). Sooner or later, you are certain to stroll along this central section of the seafront promenade. It is also likely to become the stretch where you stop most often, as every stall has its own character, reflected in the crafts and creations on display.
